US set to roll back 25% tariffs on India?

India's Russian oil imports in December dropped to their lowest in two years, lifting OPEC's share of Indian oil imports to an 11-month high, reports stated on Friday, citing trade data.

MUMBAI

US Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent on Friday signaled the potential removal of additional 25 per cent tariffs on India following a sharp reduction in Indian imports of Russian oil.

Trade tensions escalated in August when US President Donald Trump doubled tariffs on Indian goods to 50 per cent, including a 25 per cent levy in response to India's imports of Russian crude.

"Indian purchases by their refineries of Russian oil have collapsed. So that is a success. The tariffs are still on, 25 per cent tariffs for Russian oil are still on. I would imagine there is a path to take them off," Bessent said in an interview with Politico at the World Economic Forum.

India's Russian oil imports in December dropped to their lowest in two years, lifting OPEC's share of Indian oil imports to an 11-month high, Reuters reported on Friday, citing trade data. Bessent's remarks came amid heightened pressure from Trump, who earlier warned that tariffs could increase further unless India curtails its Russian oil purchases.

China trade deal: Trump threatens Canada with 100% tariff

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Saturday threatened to impose a 100% tariff on goods imported from Canada if America's northern neighbour went ahead with its trade deal with China. Trump said in a social media post that if Canadian Prime Minister Mark Carney "thinks he is going to make Canada a "Drop Off Port" for China to send goods and products into the United States, he is sorely mistaken."

While Trump has waged a trade war over the past year, Canada this month negotiated a deal to lower tariffs on Chinese electric vehicles in return for lower import taxes on Canadian farm products.Trump initially had said that agreement was what Carney "should be doing and it's a good thing for him to sign a trade deal." Carney's office did not immediately respond to a request for comment.

His threat came amid an escalating war of words with Carney as the Republican president's push to acquire Greenland strained the NATO alliance.

'Iran is not afraid, Khamenei not hiding in a bunker'

TEHRAN

Besieged by sanctions and an increasingly belligerent US, Iran's Supreme Leader Ali Hosseini Khamenei is being given security, but is not hiding in a bunker, said Iran's consul general in Mumbai. As per agency reports, the Consul General of Iran in Mumbai, Saeid Reza Mosayeb Motlagh, said foreign intelligence agencies have fomented the protests in his country and that Iran and India are both trying to keep their cooperation going despite the threat of sanctions.

To a question on the US' measures in the region, including sending an aircraft carrier strike group, the diplomat declared that Iran is fully prepared.

Motlagh said Iran has been facing and resisting foreign sanctions for many years, but has also shown an ability to resist them. The internet blackout in Iran in the wake of the protests has been criticised around the world. When the consul general was asked about this, he said it was necessary because "foreign factors were fanning the unrest" using the internet, and the country also saw cyber attacks. On allegations that Khamenei is avoiding appearing in public and hiding in a bunker, the diplomat said the Supreme Leader is holding all required meetings with officials via video conferencing and other means. "We are not afraid of any foreign powers. Some people are spreading rumours. It is natural that His Eminence must have security personnel protecting him, as in any other country. However, one should not think that he is hidden in a bunker or a shelter," he asserted.

European Commission chief Leyen lands in Delhi

NEW DELHI

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen kick-started her four-day visit to India to firm up a series of big-ticket initiatives to significantly expand two-way ties.

President of the European Council Antonio Costa and von der Leyen will hold summit talks with Prime Minister Narendra Modi in New Delhi on January 27 amid increasing global concerns over disruptions caused by the Trump administration's economic and security policies.

Costa will land in the national capital on Sunday. The two European Union leaders will grace the Republic Day celebrations as the chief guests on January 26.

At the summit, India and the EU are set to announce the conclusion of the much-awaited free trade agreement and firm up a strategic defence partnership pact and a framework for mobility of Indian professionals.

Union Minister Jitin Prasada welcomed von der Leyen at the airport.

"Charting the next phase of the India-EU Strategic partnership. A warm welcome to the President of the European Commission Ursula von der Leyen @vonderleyen, on her State Visit to India," External Affairs Ministry spokesperson Randhir Jaiswal said on 'X'.

"As the world's two largest democracies, India and the EU share a partnership rooted in mutual trust and shared values," he added.

The ties between India and the EU have been on an upswing in the last few years.

The EU, as a bloc, is India's largest trading partner in goods. For the financial year 2024-25, India's total trade in goods with the EU was worth about USD 136 billion, with exports around USD 76 billion and imports at USD 60 billion.

'On the cusp of a historic trade agreement'

Speaking earlier this week at the World Economic Forum in Davos, von der Leyen said, "We are on the cusp of a historic trade agreement (with India)." Commerce Minister Piyush Goyal has described the proposed free trade agreement as "the mother of all deals", as New Delhi and Brussels look to expand market access amid tightening global trade conditions driven by US tariffs and Chinese export restrictions.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Thursday met ambassadors from European Union member states and underlined the need for closer cooperation to "derisk the world economy" in response to unpredictable US policies.

India and the European Union have both been impacted by the trade approach of US President Donald Trump. India faces tariff rates of up to 50 per cent on certain exports to the United States, while the EU is yet to ratify a trade arrangement with Washington that has been criticised as imbalanced.

WHO IS URSULA VON DER LEYEN?

'Transfer of judges is judiciary's internal matter, govt can have no say'

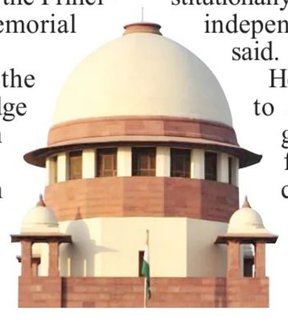
NEW DELHI

Supreme Court judge Justice Ujjal Bhuyan on Saturday said that the transfer of judges is an internal matter of the judiciary and that the government should have no role in the process, stressing that judicial transfers are meant solely for the better administration of justice.

Speaking at a lecture held at the ILS Law College, Pune, Justice Bhuyan said,

"Transfer of a judge is always for the better administration of justice. It is an internal matter of the judiciary. The government can have no say in that." Justice Bhuyan cautioned that any departure from this principle compromises judicial independence and defeats the purpose of insulating the judiciary from outside influence.

Justice Bhuyan was delivering a lecture on "Constitutional Morality and Democratic Governance" as part of the Principal GV Pandit Memorial Lecture series.



In his address, the Supreme Court judge expressed concern over instances where collegium resolutions themselves record that a transfer was made at the request of the government, describing this as deeply troubling. "When the collegium itself records that the transfer of a High Court judge was being made at the request of the government, it reveals a striking intrusion into what is constitutionally supposed to be an independent process," he said.

He said this amounts to an admission of governmental influence in a process that was specifically designed to be immune from such interference.

"The chargesheet was filed in the Nellore ACB court on Friday," souces said on Saturday. Accusing several persons and ghee suppliers, the SIT's remand report had earlier observed that adulterated ghee was made by mixing ingredients such as palm oil, palm kernel oil and palmolein.

Along with minimal quality of ghee, chemicals such as beta carotene, acetic acid ester, ghee flavour and other adulterants were used to adjust lab test values and maintain aroma in the adulterated ghee, said the report.

Andhra Pradesh Chief Minister N Chandrababu Naidu had claimed in September 2024 that animal fat was used in preparing Tirupati laddus (consecrated sweet) during the previous YS Jagan Mohan Reddy-led regime in the state, triggering a massive political row.

During an NDA legislative party meeting in the southern state in 2024, Naidu had alleged that the erstwhile YSRCP government did not even spare Sri Venkateswara temple and used substandard ingredients and animal fats for making laddus, which are revered and sought after by crores of devotees.

Non-veg lovers in shock as chicken prices soars

BENGALURU

Chicken lovers in Bengaluru and other cities of Karnataka are facing a big shock as prices of chicken meat have risen sharply. While a kilogram of chicken cost between ₹260 and ₹280 last December, it has now crossed ₹340 to ₹350 per kg in many places. Traders estimate that prices could rise further to ₹370–₹380 in the coming days.

Experts say the price surge is due to multiple factors. Protests by poultry farmers in Tamil Nadu and Andhra Pradesh over high maintenance costs have disrupted supplies. Farmers are demanding higher payments from companies, which has reduced production. At the same time, overall chicken production has declined, creating a shortage in the market.

The price rise is expected to impact non-vegetarian restaurants as well. Popular dishes like chicken biryani, chicken kebabs, and other chicken-based meals may see cost increases in the coming weeks. Since much of Karnataka's chicken supply comes from Tamil Nadu, events outside the state are directly affecting local markets.

Traders and consumers are closely watching the situation, worried about how high prices might go. For non-veg lovers, this sudden hike comes as an unpleasant surprise, adding pressure on household budgets and food expenses. Authorities and traders are monitoring supply to try and stabilize the market in the near future.

HC denies retirement without valid reason

BENGALURU

The Karnataka High Court has ruled that an employee cannot seek voluntary retirement without giving a proper reason, especially when facing disciplinary action for repeated absence from duty.

A division bench of Justice Anu Sivaraman and Justice Vijayakumar A. gave the decision while dismissing an appeal filed by L. Srinivas, a former driver with the Karnataka State Road Transport Corporation (KSRTC).

Srinivas had been removed from service for long periods of unauthorised absence. He later applied for voluntary retirement, but the court said such a request cannot be accepted if no valid explanation or supporting documents are provided.

The bench noted that despite repeated warnings, penalties and opportunities, the driver continued to remain absent without approved leave. He failed to submit medical certificates or official leave applications to justify his absence. Though he claimed health problems, he did not produce proof or formally request lighter duties under disability provisions.

The case dates back several years. Srinivas joined KSRTC in 1997 and was first dismissed in 2010 for repeated absence. The Labour Court later ordered his reinstatement with reduced benefits. However, he again stayed away from duty without permission in 2013, leading to another inquiry and dismissal in 2015.

The Labour Court later directed KSRTC to consider his voluntary retirement plea. KSRTC challenged this before the High Court, arguing that an employee facing proven misconduct cannot bypass disciplinary action through voluntary retirement.

Agreeing with this, the High Court said the Labour Court was wrong to entertain such a request. The appeal was dismissed, and the dismissal from service remains valid. The judgment reinforces that service rules must be followed strictly by employees.

'Govt officials must accept calls from representatives'

BENGALURU

The Karnataka government has issued strict instructions to all officials to accept phone calls from elected representatives, including MLAs, MLCs, MPs, and Rajya Sabha members. Chief Secretary Dr Shalini Rajneesh, has emphasized that officials cannot ignore these calls and must respond promptly.

A circular issued by the Chief Secretary noted that members of the Legislative Assembly and Council often contact government officials to resolve grievances and problems raised by the public. It was observed that some officials either do not pick up calls from these representatives or fail to return them even when busy with other duties.

To address this, the circular mandates that all government officers must keep contact numbers of elected representatives readily available. If an official is occupied when a call comes in, they are required to call back as soon as possible and provide a proper response to the issues raised.

KPT Mangaluru becomes India's first autonomous govt polytechnic

Mangaluru

In a landmark development for technical education in India, the Karnataka Government Polytechnic (KPT), Mangaluru, has been granted autonomous status by the All India Council for Technical Education (AICTE), making it the first government polytechnic in the country to achieve this distinction. Until recently, AICTE restricted autonomous status to engineering colleges, leaving diploma-level institutions outside its scope.

Young Entrepreneur Killed in Head-On Collision

A 26-year-old fast-food outlet owner died in a head-on collision near Kundapur, alarming residents over repeated accidents

KUNDAPUR

A tragic road accident claimed the life of a young entrepreneur early Saturday morning after a head-on collision involving a motorcycle and a private bus near Kundapur in coastal Karnataka. The victim has been identified as Vijay Devadiga (26), a resident of Saukuru.

The fatal incident occurred at the Shetrakatte curve, a known accident-prone stretch near Kundapur. According to preliminary reports, Vijay Devadiga was riding his motorcycle from Trasi towards Saukuru when the accident took place. Devadiga was the owner of a fast-food outlet in Trasi and was well known in the local area for his business and community ties.

Eyewitness accounts and initial police findings indicate that as Devadiga approached the Shetrakatte curve, he attempted to overtake a private bus traveling ahead of him. During the manoeuvre, his motorcycle reportedly moved into the opposite lane. At that moment, another private bus approaching from the opposite direction collided head-on with the motorcycle. The impact was severe, leaving Devadiga with critical injuries.

Despite immediate attention from passersby, Devadiga succumbed to his injuries at the spot before medical assistance could arrive. Local authorities were promptly informed and reached the scene to conduct preliminary investigations, regulate traffic and clear the roadway. The buses involved in the collision sustained damage, though no serious injuries to passengers were reported.

The accident has deeply affected the local community, particularly because it occurred close to the site of a recent major accident involving a tipper lorry and a government bus. The recurrence of fatal incidents along the same stretch of road has intensified public concern over traffic safety, road design and driver behaviour in the area.

Residents have voiced worries about risky overtaking, speeding and limited visibility along curves, especially during peak traffic hours. Many have urged authorities to take immediate steps such as installing warning signage, speed breakers, improved lighting and stricter enforcement of traffic rules. Police officials said a detailed investigation is underway to determine the exact sequence of events leading to the collision.

Kamath Accuses Ramanath Rai of Saffron Allergy

MANGALURU

Political tensions in coastal Karnataka escalated on Saturday after Vedavyas Kamath, the MLA from Mangaluru South, accused former minister Ramanath Rai of once again displaying what he termed an allergy to the saffron colour. Kamath's remarks came amid an ongoing controversy surrounding the use of saffron flags at Hindu religious programmes.

Questioning the objections raised over saffron symbolism, Kamath asked which flag should be used at Hindu religious events if saffron itself was being portrayed as controversial. Drawing a comparison, he said green flags are commonly used in mosques and questioned whether that practice was ever considered inappropriate. Green flags are used in mosques does that make it wrong as well? he asked, arguing that religious symbols should not be selectively politicised.

Referring to the recent Paryaya inauguration ceremony in Udupi, Kamath said that Karnataka Minister Lakshmi Hebbalkar did not attend the event. Instead, the district deputy commissioner formally inaugurated the traditional religious ceremony. Kamath alleged that had Hebbalkar been present, she would have been handed the saffron flag as part of the customary rituals associated with the Paryaya system. His remarks were aimed at highlighting what he described as the Congress party's discomfort with saffron, a colour closely associated with Hindu traditions.

Mangaluru South MLA Vedavyas Kamath criticised former minister Ramanath Rai, questioning Congress's stance on saffron at Hindu religious events.

Taking his criticism further, Kamath issued a direct challenge to the Indian National Congress leadership and its workers. If Congress leaders have the courage, let them try this, he said, questioning whether any Congress leader or worker would dare to wear saffron attire and enter a Congress office. The statement was intended to underline what he called ideological hypocrisy within the party regarding religious symbolism.

Kamath's comments have added fuel to an already sensitive debate in Karnataka over the intersection of religion, politics and cultural identity. Supporters of the BJP argue that saffron represents centuries-old Hindu traditions and should not be viewed purely through a political lens. On the other hand, Congress leaders have previously accused the BJP of using religious symbols for political mobilisation.

Bus Timing Disputes Turn Violent, One Seriously Injured

UDUPI

One person was seriously injured in two separate incidents involving bus crew members over timing disputes under the jurisdiction of the Udupi Town Police Station, highlighting growing concerns over safety and discipline at busy bus stands in the city.

In the first and more serious case, a complaint was lodged by Riyaz (41), who is currently undergoing inpatient treatment at the Government District Hospital, Udupi. Riyaz works as a driver of the Navadurga bus bearing registration number KA-20 AC-3467.

According to the complaint, at around 5 pm, Riyaz was present at the service bus stand when he got into a heated verbal altercation over bus timings with Saddam, the driver of the Celina bus bearing registration number KA-20 AC-1097. The dispute allegedly escalated when the accused abused Riyaz using filthy language and stabbed him near the left eye with a screwdriver. Police said that when Riyaz attempted to flee the scene, the accused chased him, waylaid him and again stabbed him with the screwdriver with the alleged intention to kill, causing serious injuries.

The complaint further states that the accused issued life threats, warning Riyaz to come to Mangaluru, where he would be taken care of. Based on the complaint, police registered a case and initiated an investigation into the violent assault.

Police have registered a loan fraud case involving forged bank documents and illegal transfer of a hypothecated vehicle.

Vehicle Loan Fraud Case Registered

BELTHANGADY

A case has been registered at Bantwal Town Police Station in connection with an alleged vehicle loan fraud involving non-repayment of a loan worth several lakhs of rupees and the use of forged documents to deceive a nationalised bank and the Regional Transport Office (RTO). The case pertains to a loan taken from Bank of Baroda, which investigators say was fraudulently shown as cleared using fabricated paperwork.

According to the complaint, the accused prepared a fake clearance letter on the official letterhead of Bank of Baroda, bearing a forged signature of a bank official. This letter falsely claimed that the entire vehicle loan had been repaid and sought removal of the hypothecation from official records. The forged document was allegedly submitted to the Bantwal RTO with the intention of misleading authorities and facilitating an illegal transfer of ownership.

Police have registered the case against Tanveer and his mother Nebisha, both residents of Belthangady, along with Junaid Melkar and Rameez Alish, residents of Uppinangady. The complaint states that Tanveer had availed a loan of ₹45 lakh from the Uppinangady branch of Bank of Baroda on March 16, 2023, to purchase an Ashok Leyland lorry. His mother Nebisha had stood as guarantor for the loan.

On August 22, 2024, Tanveer reportedly transferred responsibility of the vehicle to Junaid Melkar through a General Power of Attorney (GPA). Investigators allege that this was part of a larger plan to distance himself from the loan liability while the outstanding amount remained unpaid.

Subsequently, on December 16, 2024, Tanveer is accused of forging the signature of a Bank of Baroda official on a fabricated clearance letter, falsely stating that the loan account at the Uppinangady branch had been fully settled. Using this letter, an application was made to the Bantwal RTO seeking removal of the hypothecation recorded against the vehicle.

Based on the clearance obtained from the RTO, Rameez Alish allegedly executed a pre-planned conspiracy and transferred the ownership of the lorry to his own name.

Chikkamagaluru Gears Up For Republic Day Exhibition

CHIKKAMAGALURU

Preparations are in full swing for the Republic Day fruit and flower exhibition in Chikkamagaluru, one of Karnataka's most popular seasonal events that attracts thousands of visitors every year. With a series of holidays coinciding with the exhibition, the district administration has issued an important order to regulate traffic movement and parking arrangements in the city to ensure the smooth flow of vehicles and the safety of the public.

Chikkamagaluru, often referred to as the coffee country, witnesses a significant surge in tourist arrivals during long holiday spells. This year, the rush is expected to be even higher due to the Republic Day celebrations and the much-anticipated fruit and flower exhibition. Anticipating heavy congestion on city roads, the district administration has implemented special traffic management measures, including the designation of specific parking areas for visitors.

According to officials, the decision was taken to prevent traffic bottlenecks, ease congestion near the exhibition venue and ensure uninterrupted movement for emergency services. Vehicles arriving from different directions will be guided to designated parking locations within the city limits, from where visitors can proceed to the exhibition area on foot or through arranged transport facilities, if any. The order aims to avoid roadside parking and random stopping of vehicles, which often leads to traffic snarls during major public events.

The district administration has appealed to the public and tourists to strictly follow the parking instructions issued by the authorities. Traffic police personnel will be deployed at key junctions and along major roads to regulate vehicle movement and guide motorists to the approved parking zones. Unauthorized parking and violation of traffic rules may invite penalties, officials warned.

In addition to parking arrangements, temporary traffic diversions may also be implemented depending on the volume of vehicles entering the city during peak hours. Residents have been advised to plan their travel in advance and cooperate with the police to ensure hassle-free movement for everyone.

The fruit and flower exhibition, organised as part of Republic Day celebrations, is one of the highlights of Chikkamagaluru's annual calendar. It showcases a wide variety of fruits, flowers and horticultural displays, drawing visitors from across Karnataka and neighbouring states.

BRAHMAVAR

Police have successfully apprehended an accused in an assault case who had earlier fled from Udupi District Hospital, under the jurisdiction of Brahmavar Police Station. The accused was traced after an intensive manhunt and produced before the court.

The arrested individual has been identified as Kiran Pinto (49), a resident of Tenkanidiyur. Kiran Pinto was one of the accused in an assault incident that took place in front of a bar in Brahmavar on January 18. He sustained injuries during the incident and was admitted as an inpatient at the Ajjarkadu hospital in Udupi for treatment.

The complaint further states that when Ashwini attempted to wake up Praveen, Praveen D'Cruz allegedly pushed Ashwini and Sushma Gowda to the ground and tore Ashwini's clothes, following which a case was registered.

In a counter-complaint filed by Kiran Pinto, he alleged that Praveen had called him near the bar and that Sujeeth D'Souza, Sushma Gowda and Ashwini Naik arrived at the spot in a car. During the altercation, Praveen D'Cruz allegedly assaulted him with an iron rod, causing injuries.

In connection with the case, police had earlier taken Sujeeth D'Souza of Petri and Praveen D'Cruz of Thirthahalli into custody and produced them before the court. Further investigation into the incident is ongoing.

HDK terms 'Go Back Governor' campaign in K'taka as drama

The state government is trying to divert attention from its failures by creating unnecessary confrontation with the Governor, says the Union Minister

MANDYA

Union Minister HD Kumaraswamy dismissed the Congress party's "Go Back Governor" campaign as mere political drama, saying it would not solve the real problems of Karnataka.

Speaking to reporters after inaugurating the Maramma Devi temple in Shivalli village of Melukote constituency, he alleged that the state government was trying to divert attention from its failures by creating unnecessary confrontation with the Governor.

> Development issues must be discussed in the Assembly and it should not be turned into a political theatre.
> —HD Kumaraswamy,Union Minister

He said disputes between the state and the Centre should be resolved through discussion, not slogans or street protests. "Development issues must be discussed in the Assembly and it should not be turned into a political theatre," he said. Kumaraswamy also spoke about his political future, stating that Karnataka remains his main political ground and he would contest from wherever people want him to.

Responding to critics who claimed the Janata Dal Secular was weakening, he said the party was steadily rebuilding its strength at the grassroots level.

He added that development of Mandya district was his priority and said he had written to the Chief Minister seeking land to set up an Automotive Research Association of India centre in the region.

On possible alliances, Kumaraswamy said the JD(S) and BJP would take decisions based on people's expectations in upcoming local body elections. He admitted that local level competition between workers was natural, but final decisions would be taken after discussions within the party.

He urged leaders across parties to focus on governance, farmer welfare, jobs, and infrastructure instead of constant political fights. Stable administration, he said, would bring better results for the state's people in the long run, while political drama only creates confusion and delays progress.

BJP seeks action over Guv disrespect claims

MANGALURU

The BJP has demanded action against Legislative Council members B.K. Hariprasad and S. Ravi, alleging they showed disrespect to the Governor during the joint session of the State Legislature.

Speaking at a press conference at the BJP district office in Mangaluru, Council member Pratapsimha Nayak said the Governor, as a constitutional authority, must be treated with full respect inside the House. He said it is standard practice for the Governor to read only the opening and closing parts of the address, which is considered valid under parliamentary procedure.

Nayak alleged that the two members created unnecessary drama by trying to obstruct the Governor. He further claimed there was physical jostling during the incident and called for a proper inquiry into what happened. He urged the Speaker to take strict action and ensure such incidents are not repeated. According to him, the BJP has already filed a formal complaint with the Speaker regarding the conduct of the two members. He said the matter had been referred to the House Committee, and requested that it should not be withdrawn or reconsidered without due process.

Nayak also accused the ruling party of trying to divert public attention from governance issues by creating controversies inside the Assembly. He claimed opposition members were not being given enough opportunity to speak during the session. Other BJP leaders present at the press meet supported the demand for an inquiry and disciplinary action. There was no immediate response from the leaders named in the allegations. RBI rules differ from cooperative act: Rajendra

M.N. Rajendra Kumar, President of the Dakshina Kannada District Central Cooperative Bank, said cooperative institutions must clearly understand the difference between the Cooperative Act and Reserve Bank of India (RBI) regulations.

He spoke at a state-level performance training programme held for presidents, directors and senior officers of town cooperative banks from the Mysuru division. The event took place at the District Central Cooperative Bank auditorium in Mangaluru. Rajendra Kumar explained that though cooperative societies are registered under the Cooperative Act, they must also follow RBI rules, especially in matters related to loans and financial operations. He said some RBI guidelines are difficult for cooperatives to follow and may clash with provisions under the Cooperative Act. Because of this, he stressed the need to consult legal experts and take suitable steps.

He gave examples such as restrictions on renting extra space in cooperative buildings and challenges faced while recovering loans from defaulters. He said such issues require legal clarity and policy discussion.

Rajendra Kumar also spoke about the difference between cooperative banks and commercial banks. He said cooperative institutions work with members' savings and focus on helping genuine borrowers, while commercial banks often deal with large corporate loans that sometimes turn into bad debts. Karnataka State Cooperative Federation Director Jayakar Shetty praised the performance of the local cooperative bank and said its model could guide other institutions. Deputy Registrar H.N. Ramesh highlighted the need for proper documents and clear property details during loan recovery auctions.

Several officials and directors from cooperative institutions attended the programme. Rajendra Kumar, who recently received a leadership award from a university in the United States, was also honoured during the event. Organisers said the training aimed to improve governance, legal awareness, and financial discipline in the cooperative sector.

BIDAR

The monthly Sharan Sangam program was held at Basavagiri in Bidar, organized by the Lingayat Maha Math. Niranjan Swamiji of the Himalayan Dhyana Yoga Center led the spiritual discourse, sharing insights on meditation, surrender, and daily karma as essential elements for a balanced life. He emphasized that personal happiness should be guided by spiritual values rather than material wealth, and that devotion and disciplined living bring true fulfillment.

The program highlighted the teachings of Sharanas from the twelfth century, who broke caste and gender barriers while promoting equality and moral guidance through Vachana literature. Swamiji said these messages continue to serve as a guiding light for humanity, and participants were encouraged to incorporate these principles into daily life.

'Alamati Silver Lake boating to boost tourism'

VIJAYAPURA

Minister for Textiles, Sugarcane Development, Sugar and Agriculture, Sivananda Patil, inaugurated boating activities at Alamati Silver Lake, a major tourist destination in North Karnataka.

The launch, held on Saturday, aims to promote tourism and provide recreational opportunities for visitors and local families.

The initiative, organized by the Krishna Bhagya Water Corporation under the Water Resources Department, offers a variety of attractions, including pedal boats, motorboats, rafting, kayaking, ziplining, and other water sports, set to begin in February. Minister Patil emphasized that these activities will benefit people across Karnataka and attract tourists from neighboring states such as Maharashtra and Andhra Pradesh. Alamati Silver Lake, created on an artificial lake built in 2003–04, is 10 feet deep and features five Japanese-style gazebos along its banks. The lake reflects the surrounding nature, earning it the name "Silver Lake." The reservoir area also includes major parks such as Rock Park, 77 Acre Park, Lavakush Park, and Krishna Park, making it a vibrant hub for leisure and family outings.

The Minister highlighted that the development of Silver Lake and the surrounding recreational facilities will strengthen tourism in the region and provide a safe, attractive environment for visitors. Former Minister S.R. Patil and officials from KBJNL, including Superintendent Engineer Basavaraj, were present during the launch.

The boating and water-sport activities are expected to draw around 7–8 lakh tourists annually, enhancing Alamati's position as a key North Karnataka tourist destination.

European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen and European Council President António Costa will attend the parade at Kartavya Path, New Delhi. This is the first time the EU's top leadership has been invited together, signaling a deeper engagement between India and Brussels. The Ministry of External Affairs (MEA) welcomed her visit as a step toward advancing the India–EU Strategic Partnership, emphasising the shared democratic values of both sides. Earlier, EU High Representative for Foreign Affairs and Security Policy and Vice-President Kaja Kallas also arrived in New Delhi for her first official visit. The MEA described her visit as timely for strengthening India–EU ties amid ongoing geopolitical uncertainties.

The EU leaders' visit comes amid intensified India–EU diplomatic engagement. On Thursday, External Affairs Minister S. Jaishankar met with EU ambassadors in New Delhi to discuss global volatility and the need for enhanced cooperation.

"Spoke to EU ambassadors about a world where volatility and instability have become the new normal," Jaishankar said on X (formerly Twitter). He emphasised that closer India–EU cooperation could help stabilise the global economy, enhance supply chain resilience, support humanitarian and disaster relief efforts, and strengthen trade, mobility, and security partnerships.

The party condemned 'forced' takeover of tribal lands in Great Nicobar, terming it completely unacceptable.

Congress slams Modi government over Great Nicobar Project

NEW DELHI

The Congress on Saturday strongly criticized the Modi government over the Great Nicobar Island infrastructure project, calling it "ecologically disastrous" and claiming the government is ignoring petitions and expert concerns. Congress general secretary Jairam Ramesh shared reports that tribal members in Little and Great Nicobar allege pressure from the district administration to "surrender" their ancestral lands for the project.

Ramesh said on X that despite petitions being heard in the Calcutta High Court and the National Green Tribunal, and repeated warnings from professionals, the government remains indifferent. He called the coercion of tribals "unacceptable" and highlighted the ecological risks posed by the project.

Congress Parliamentary Party chairperson Sonia Gandhi also criticized the project, describing it as a "planned misadventure" threatening the survival of indigenous communities. She alleged that the government has bypassed proper legal and deliberative procedures to push the project forward.

In response, Environment Minister Bhupendra Yadav defended the project, stating that all necessary clearances were obtained and describing it as important for India's development.

The Great Nicobar project, which aims to build major infrastructure on the island, has raised concerns among environmentalists and local communities about displacement, ecological damage, and disruption of tribal life. Congress leaders emphasized that such projects must balance development with protection of indigenous rights and the environment, warning against decisions made without adequate consultation.

The controversy continues to draw attention nationally, with legal proceedings and public debates highlighting the tension between development goals and ecological and tribal protections.

Will raise 'issues' with leadership: Tharoor

KOZHIKODE

Congress MP Shashi Tharoor on Saturday said he has some "issues" with the party that he intends to discuss with the leadership, while asserting that he has never violated the party's positions in Parliament. Speaking at the Kerala Literature Festival, Tharoor emphasized that internal differences should be addressed within the organisation and not aired publicly.

His remarks come amid reports that he was upset over Congress leader Rahul Gandhi not acknowledging his presence at a recent Kochi event and over alleged attempts by state leaders to sideline him. Tharoor said he would take up his concerns with the party leadership during his upcoming visit to Delhi for Parliament sessions, aiming for a proper discussion in the appropriate forum.

He also clarified that he had informed party leaders about his inability to attend certain meetings, citing travel commitments and participation in literature festivals. Tharoor said he would continue to attend all parliamentary party activities and planned to exhibit his book on Sree Narayana Guru at the festival.

On national security, Tharoor recalled his firm support for Operation Sindoor after the Pahalgam terror attack in April 2025. He explained that he had advocated for a precise military response to terror launchpads in Pakistan, which the government implemented. Despite the party's discomfort at the time, Tharoor defended his stance, saying India's security must always come first.

He concluded by stressing that political differences are normal, but national interest must prevail, noting that when the country's safety is at stake, India's welfare comes before party politics.

8 arrested for digital fraud case targeting elderly NRI couple

NEW DELHI

The Delhi Police on Saturday arrested eight people from Gujarat, Uttar Pradesh, and Odisha in connection with the alleged duping of an elderly NRI couple of over Rs 14 crore through a "digital arrest" scam. The operation also exposed a cyber-fraud racket with links to operators in Cambodia and Nepal.

The accused include Divyang Patel (30) and Krutik Shitole (26) from Vadodara, Mahavir Sharma (27) from Bhubaneswar, Ankit Mishra from Gujarat, Arun Kumar Tiwari (45) and Pradyuman Tiwari (44) from Varanasi, and Bhupender Kumar Mishra (37) and Aadesh Kumar Singh (36) from Lucknow. The arrests took place between January 15 and 21.

Police said the 77-year-old victim from Greater Kailash, Delhi, was contacted in December 2025 about a SIM card linked to a money-laundering case. Fraudsters posed as CBI and police officials, conducted fake video court proceedings, and coerced the couple into transferring money into "RBI-mandated accounts" under threat, completing eight transactions totaling Rs 14.84 crore.

The accused acted as facilitators, procuring and operating mule accounts, while the international syndicate controlled the flow of funds. Technical surveillance and bank account analysis helped police track the money trail. Seven mobile phones and chequebooks were seized during the operation.

Police said further investigation is ongoing to uncover the complete money trail and identify additional conspirators.

Over 70 fugitives wanted by India located abroad

According to the Ministry of Personnel, Public Grievances and Pensions, over 70 fugitives wanted by India were located abroad during 2024-25. This marks the highest number in more than a decade. During the same period, 203 fugitives wanted by other countries were found in India, while 27 fugitives returned from abroad.

The report also highlighted the work of the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) as the National Central Bureau (NCB) for Interpol. Between April 2024 and March 2025, 74 Letters Rogatory (LRs) were sent abroad—54 by CBI and 20 by state and central agencies. Of these, 47 LRs were fully executed, and 29 partially executed or closed. As of March 31, 2025, 533 LRs remained pending with other countries.

NCB-India issued various Interpol notices, including 126 red notices for provisional arrest, 89 blue notices seeking information, 24 yellow notices for missing persons, seven black notices for unidentified bodies, and one green notice for potential threats. CBI coordinates with foreign law enforcement, Interpol bureaux, and Indian ministries to bring wanted fugitives back.

The report also covered citizenship and passport-related data. Between April 2024 and March 2025, CBI processed over 22,200 renunciation applications. Additionally, 1,91,031 lost, stolen, or revoked Indian passports were uploaded in Interpol's Stolen and Lost Travel Documents (SLTD) database, with 30 cases detected using these records.

This data underscores India's growing cooperation with international agencies to track fugitives and secure the return of wanted individuals, strengthening law enforcement and border security.

High courts should be more proactive guardians: CJI

MUMBAI

Chief Justice of India Surya Kant on Saturday urged high courts to be more proactive and alert to systematic failures in the rule of law. Speaking at the Fali Nariman memorial lecture and a felicitation programme by the Bombay High Court, he stressed that "justice delayed is not only justice denied but it is justice destroyed." CJI Kant said high courts should not remain only appellate or revisional bodies but act as accessible centres for constitutional remedies. "High courts are the primary sentinel guarding ordinary citizens, ensuring that the rule of law is not distant but a living reality," he said. Highlighting mediation and reconciliation, he added that alternative dispute resolution preserves relationships, reduces costs, and allows courts to focus on cases requiring authoritative adjudication. The CJI also called for strengthening high courts in the digital era and warned against bypassing them for direct Supreme Court access. He said further.

Mass dog killings rock Telangana, toll touches 900

HYDERABAD

Animal rights activists have claimed that stray dog killings continue in Telangana, with the toll reportedly reaching 900. In a recent incident, around 300 dogs were allegedly killed in Pegadapally village, Jagtial district, on January 22. The act is suspected to have been carried out by local elected representatives, including Sarpanchs, allegedly to fulfill promises made to villagers before gram panchayat elections in December.

A complaint alleged that the village Sarpanch hired individuals to poison the stray dogs. Following the complaint, police registered an FIR under relevant sections of the BNS and the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals Act. Inspector Ch. Kiran said that during an inquest, 70–80 dog carcasses were exhumed, appearing to have been buried three to four days earlier. Post-mortem reports are awaited, and further investigation is ongoing.

Several similar incidents were reported in January alone. Animal activists claimed that 100 dogs were poisoned in Yacharam village on January 19, with 50 carcasses recovered immediately. Earlier, nine people, including two women sarpanches and their husbands, were booked for allegedly killing 300 dogs in Shayampet and Arepally villages, Hanamkonda district. In Kamareddy district, around 200 stray dogs were reportedly killed, and six people, including five village sarpanches, were booked.

The repeated incidents have sparked outrage among activists, who demand strict action and better measures to control the stray dog population without resorting to cruelty. Authorities continue to investigate the latest case, while public concern over animal welfare grows.

BJP transformed UP from 'beemaru' to breakthrough state: Shah

'The HM says the state is poised to become the engine of a developed India by 2047'

LUCKNOW

Union Home Minister Amit Shah on Saturday praised Uttar Pradesh's transformation under the BJP government, calling it a "breakthrough state" during the Uttar Pradesh Day celebrations in Lucknow. He criticized opposition parties, including Congress, Samajwadi Party, and Bahujan Samaj Party, for turning the state into a "beemaru" state during their rule. Shah said development now reaches every village, reversing decades of neglect. He also expressed hope that by August 15, 2047, Uttar Pradesh will be fully developed and contribute significantly to a "Viksit Bharat."

Shah emphasized the state's strategic role in India's economy, calling it the "heartbeat" of the nation. He said Uttar Pradesh has moved from being a labour source to becoming a growth engine, highlighting the state's industrial, cultural, and religious significance. Uttar Pradesh is home to sacred rivers like the Ganga, Yamuna, and Saryu, and historical and religious cities such as Varanasi, Ayodhya, Mathura, Vrindavan, Prayagraj, Sarnath, and Kushinagar, attracting millions of pilgrims annually.

Rushed SIR in Bengal may harm democracy: Sen

KOLKATA

Nobel laureate Amartya Sen has expressed serious concern over the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls in West Bengal, warning that the process is being rushed and may undermine democratic participation ahead of upcoming assembly elections. Speaking from Boston, the 92-year-old economist told that electoral roll revisions must be conducted carefully and with adequate time—conditions he says are missing in Bengal.

Sen explained that hurried SIR exercises limit voters' ability to submit documents and prove eligibility, which is unfair to citizens and the democratic process. Drawing from personal experience, he recounted difficulties he faced in proving his right to vote from Santiniketan. Even official records were questioned, including details about his deceased mother, highlighting procedural gaps. He noted that citizens from rural areas often face similar challenges, especially without birth certificates or easy access to documentation.

The economist emphasized that structural disadvantages put poorer and marginalized groups at risk of exclusion, as obtaining required documents can be difficult. "The class bias in demanding documentation tends to work against the indigent," he said.

Sen expressed deep concern over West Bengal's electoral roll revision process, citing "undue haste" and inadequate time for voters.

While Sen did not offer a definitive view on political consequences, he stressed that electoral integrity should remain the priority. He urged the Election Commission to avoid faulty arrangements that could compromise democratic values, regardless of potential party benefits.

Sen's warning underscores the importance of careful preparation in electoral processes to ensure fair participation for all citizens, particularly the underprivileged, in one of India's most politically significant states.

Speeding luxury car hits guardrail during R-Day rehearsals

KOLKATA

A luxury car lost control and rammed into a guardrail on Red Road, Kolkata, on Saturday morning during rehearsals for the Republic Day parade, police said. The car was reportedly speeding when officers signalled the driver to stop, but he tried to flee, crashing into the guardrail instead.

No one was injured in the incident, but the accident raised security concerns as it recalled a 2016 tragedy when a high-end car broke through barricades during parade rehearsals, killing Air Force corporal Abhimanyu Gaud. Authorities seized the vehicle and detained the driver for questioning.

A Maidan police officer said the driver is being interrogated to determine why he entered a restricted area and attempted to evade police instructions. Officials also noted that the car lacked a valid insurance and pollution under control (PUC) certificate, adding to the violation.

Police emphasized that the Red Road area is strictly monitored during Republic Day rehearsals to ensure the safety of participants and the public. They warned that anyone violating security protocols would face strict action.

The incident has prompted authorities to review security measures around the parade route. Additional checks and barricades are expected to prevent unauthorized vehicles from entering sensitive zones during the upcoming Republic Day celebrations.

Officials reiterated that ensuring public safety during rehearsals and the main event remains a top priority, and any breach will be met with strict enforcement.

'You cannot finish Shiv Sena': Uddhav hits out at BJP

MUMBAI

Shiv Sena (UBT) president Uddhav Thackeray on Friday asserted that the BJP cannot finish his party, calling it more than a political organisation, but an idea. He made the statement while addressing party workers during the birth centenary celebrations of late Bal Thackeray, the founder of the original Shiv Sena. Uddhav said many forces are trying to erase the Thackeray legacy, but their efforts are failing.

His remarks came after the BJP emerged as the single largest party in the Mumbai civic polls held on January 15, winning 89 out of 227 seats. In alliance with Deputy CM Eknath Shinde's Shiv Sena, which won 29 seats, the BJP ended decades of Thackeray control over India's richest civic body.

The Shiv Sena (UBT)–Maharashtra Navnirman Sena (MNS) alliance gave a stronger-than-expected performance but could not stop the BJP-led Mahayuti from crossing the majority. Uddhav's party won 65 seats, while Raj Thackeray's MNS secured six seats.

Thackeray also alleged that the civic polls witnessed unprecedented use of money power, impacting fair competition. He urged party workers to stay committed to the party's ideals and continue strengthening its presence across Maharashtra.

The Shiv Sena (UBT) leader stressed that despite electoral setbacks, the party's values and ideology remain intact. He called upon workers to uphold the Thackeray legacy, insisting that political challenges cannot erase the idea that Shiv Sena (UBT) represents, ensuring it continues to inspire supporters and future generations across the state.

Odisha hails inclusion of 3 Buddhist sites in UNESCO list

BHUBANESWAR

The Odisha government on Saturday welcomed the inclusion of three of its prominent Buddhist sites—Ratnagiri, Lalitgiri, and Udaygiri—in India's Tentative List for UNESCO World Heritage Site recognition. Deputy Chief Minister Pravati Parida, who oversees tourism, called it a milestone for heritage, conservation, and sustainable tourism, saying these sites have journeyed from ancient wisdom to global recognition.

Law Minister Prithiviraj Harichandan referred to the three locations as Odisha's "Diamond Triangle," highlighting their cultural and historical significance. UNESCO's World Heritage Centre confirmed the inclusion in a letter to India's permanent delegate, acknowledging that the documentation submitted by India met operational guidelines. The submission was made on December 22, 2025, by the Archaeological Survey of India, which serves as India's nodal agency for the World Heritage Convention.

These sites are part of the Buddhist circuit and are known for housing monasteries, stupas, sculptures, and inscriptions representing Hinayana, Mahayana, and Vajrayana traditions. Historians note that Ratnagiri, Lalitgiri, and Udaygiri played a pivotal role in spreading Buddhism across Asia, showcasing Odisha's rich religious and cultural heritage.

Experts say the UNESCO recognition will boost heritage tourism, promote research, and strengthen conservation efforts in the region. By highlighting the state's Buddhist legacy, officials hope the "Diamond Triangle" will attract global attention, enhancing both educational and cultural value for visitors and scholars alike.

'Only Vijay can dethrone DMK in TN'

CHENNAI

KA Sengottaiyan, former Tamil Nadu minister and Chief Coordinator of the Tamilaga Vettri Kazhagam (TVK), claimed that actor-turned-politician Vijay is the only leader capable of ending the DMK's rule in the state.

Addressing TVK supporters at the party office in Panaiyur, Chennai, Sengottaiyan said Tamil Nadu is approaching a major political turning point and public sentiment is shifting rapidly.

"Vijay was once seen only as a silver-screen hero," he said. "But now he is emerging as Tamil Nadu's political hero, with the courage, credibility, and mass support to bring change." He hinted at a symbolic break from traditional authority, suggesting even police constables might no longer follow old protocols like blowing whistles.

Sengottaiyan also highlighted Vijay's growing support among Tamil voters abroad. He claimed nearly three lakh non-resident Tamils are tracking election dates to return home and vote, with some willing to spend between Rs 50,000 and Rs 1 lakh to cast their vote for Vijay—a phenomenon he called unprecedented in the state.

The TVK leader criticized the NDA, saying its claims of large rallies were exaggerated. "They claimed five lakh people attended, but only 60,000 seats were arranged, and 10,000 were empty. Many were even sleeping," he said, adding that calls to topple the DMK government at these events failed to get applause.

Concluding his remarks, Sengottaiyan insisted that while others may promise change, "the ground reality is clear—only Vijay can bring a new government in Tamil Nadu."

HP braces for heavy snowfall, issues advisory

SHIMLA

The Himachal Pradesh government has issued a statewide advisory ahead of an active western disturbance expected to bring heavy snowfall in higher reaches and rainfall in lower areas between January 26 and 28.

The India Meteorological Department (IMD) forecast isolated heavy snowfall and rain, which may disrupt road connectivity, power supply, and essential services.

The Revenue Department instructed all District Disaster Management Authorities to activate Emergency Operation Centres for 24/7 monitoring and update contingency and evacuation plans, especially in snowbound, flood-prone, and low-lying urban areas. Citizens are advised to follow travel advisories and public warnings.

The Public Works Department has pre-positioned snow clearance machinery, including JCBs and snow cutters, while Emergency Response Teams remain ready to restore roads and critical infrastructure. HPSEBL has placed emergency teams on standby to quickly restore electricity, and the Jal Shakti Vibhag will ensure uninterrupted water and sanitation services.

Police and Tourism Departments have been tasked with regulating traffic on vulnerable routes and issuing safety advisories to prevent tourists from entering high-risk areas. Coordination with transport authorities and the State Emergency Operation Centre has been emphasized, with daily situation reports required.

Snow clearance and road restoration operations are ongoing in Shimla and other districts. Heavy snowfall in Shimla, Kullu, Lahaul-Spiti, Chamba, and Kinnaur has blocked over 600 roads, causing difficulties for locals and visitors. Authorities are working to restore connectivity as quickly as possible.

Large cache of arms, ammunition seized in Manipur

IMPHAL

Security forces in Manipur seized a large cache of arms and ammunition in Imphal East district on Saturday, police said. The recovery took place from the foothills of the Chanung Range, highlighting ongoing efforts to tackle militancy in the state.

Among the weapons recovered were a .303 rifle with a magazine, an SLR without a magazine, eight Single Barrel Breech Loading (SBBL) rifles, a revolver, and a .22 pistol with a magazine. Police also seized 24 rounds of various calibres, five walkie-talkie sets with batteries, and multiple camouflage attires during the operation on Friday.

In a separate operation in Moreh, Tengnoupal district, police arrested a 28-year-old militant identified as Waikhom Athoi. He was a member of the banned National Revolutionary Front of Manipur (NRFM), officials said. A 9 mm pistol with two magazines and 30 live rounds was recovered from him.

Authorities said the operations are part of ongoing security measures to prevent illegal arms circulation and militant activities in the region. Officials emphasized that such seizures help maintain law and order and curb the influence of armed groups.

Security forces continue to conduct operations in sensitive areas of Manipur to ensure public safety. Residents in Imphal East and Tengnoupal districts have been advised to remain vigilant and report suspicious activity to local authorities.

RUBBER DREAMS TAKING ROOT

Mizoram plans major expansion of rubber plantations

AIZAWL

Mizoram Chief Minister Lalduhoma said the state has 50,000 hectares of land suitable for rubber cultivation. He made the announcement while visiting rubber plantations in Chungtlang village, Mamit district, on Friday.

Lalduhoma said rubber is native to Mizoram and that government initiatives to grow it began in 1982.

Before the Zoram People's Movement came to power in December 2023, only 3,025 hectares were under rubber cultivation. Under the Chief Minister's Rubber Mission, the government plans to cultivate rubber on 11,500 hectares over the next five years. Officials said about 4.5 lakh rubber saplings have already been planted on more than 1,000 hectares in Mamit and Kolasib districts.

The Land Resources, Soil, and Water Conservation Department aims to plant over 11.58 lakh saplings on 2,575 hectares in various districts this year. To support farmers, the government has sanctioned 100 rubber roller machines and tapping tools, and is developing approach roads to plantations. Marketing support for rubber produce will also be provided.

Lalduhoma said these efforts are part of a broader plan to make Mizoram a major rubber-producing state. Officials noted that the expansion of rubber cultivation will create new opportunities for local farmers, improve livelihoods, and boost the state's economy. The government's initiatives aim to modernize plantations, increase productivity, and ensure sustainable growth for the rubber sector.

With careful planning and support for farmers, Mizoram hopes to fully utilise its potential and emerge as a key player in India's rubber industry in the coming years.

Pentagon to offer 'more limited' support to US allies

WASHINGTON

The US will offer more limited support to allies, according to the Pentagon's new National Defense Strategy. In a significant shift to its security priorities, the US Department of Defense now considers security of the US homeland and Western Hemisphere - not China - as its primary concern. Previous versions of the strategy - published every four years - named the threat posed by China as the top defence priority. Relations with China will now be approached through strength, not confrontation, the report says. The defence strategy reinforces recent calls from President Donald Trump, including for greater burden-sharing from allies in countering threats posed by Russia and North Korea.

US braces for 'extremely dangerous' winter storm

NEW YORK

More than 200 million Americans are expected to face an unusually brutal winter storm starting with heavy snows and freezing rains forecast. The storm is expected to sweep through much of the United States, leaving extremely dangerous conditions in its wake as it tracks eastwards from the High Plains and Rockies, the National Weather Service (NWS) said. It warned that the Arctic blast will bring sub-zero temperatures and wind chills, which pose a life-threatening risk of hypothermia and frostbite to exposed skin. US transportation officials, including airport authorities in several major cities, have warned of weekend travel disruption, delays and cancellations.

Mass Protest in Subzero Minneapolis Challenges Trump Immigration Crackdown

Thousands marched through freezing Minneapolis, shutting businesses, to protest President Trump's immigration crackdown and support immigrant communities nationwide.

MINNEAPOLIS

Thousands of demonstrators braved extreme winter conditions to march through the streets of Minneapolis, demanding an end to President Donald Trump's immigration crackdown in the city. The protest, organised under the banner ICE OUT!, unfolded amid temperatures plunging to minus 29 degrees Celsius (minus 20 Fahrenheit), making it one of the coldest mass demonstrations the city has witnessed in recent years.

Organisers claimed that as many as 50,000 people participated in the march, though the figure could not be independently verified. Despite the biting cold, demonstrators filled major streets and public spaces, chanting slogans against US Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) and calling for the protection of immigrant families. As part of the action, dozens of businesses across Minnesota reportedly closed for the day in what organisers described as a general strike, signalling economic as well as political resistance.

The protests followed weeks of heightened tensions in the region, including sometimes violent confrontations between US Immigration and Customs Enforcement agents and protesters opposed to the administration's stepped-up enforcement operations. Many workers chose to join street protests instead of reporting to their jobs, underscoring the scale of public anger and the depth of solidarity among participating communities.

Reporting from Minneapolis, John Hendren of Al Jazeera highlighted the extraordinary resolve of the demonstrators. It is 23 degrees below zero but the stores are closed and these demonstrators are out braving the coldest day on record since 2019 all to send a simple message to ICE: Get Out, he said, capturing both the harsh conditions and the determination on display.

The demonstrations came just a day after JD Vance, the US Vice President, visited Minneapolis to show support for ICE officers and to urge local leaders and activists to help reduce tensions.

Survivors Recall Terror Inside Smoke-Filled Karachi Mall Fire

Karachi

Muhammad Imran did not initially realise the danger when he first noticed signs of fire inside a crowded shopping mall in Karachi. Accustomed to minor electrical sparks and small incidents that shop owners usually managed themselves, he assumed the situation would be quickly brought under control. Within moments, however, that assumption proved tragically wrong.

Smoke began seeping rapidly through ventilation ducts, spreading thick, black fumes across the mall. According to Imran, the air darkened in seconds, making it difficult to breathe or see. Soon after, the electricity failed, plunging the building into darkness. Mobile phone flashlights offered little help as visibility dropped to almost zero. You couldn't even see your own hands, he recalled, describing the terrifying speed with which the situation deteriorated. Imran, who suffers from diabetes and has previously undergone heart surgery, said his physical condition made escape even more difficult. As panic spread among shoppers and workers, people stumbled blindly, shouting for help and searching for exits they could no longer see. Imran said he managed to take only a few steps before exhaustion and fear nearly overwhelmed him. It felt like doomsday, he said. You couldn't see the person next to you.

Other survivors echoed similar accounts of confusion and desperation. Many said smoke inhalation set in quickly, causing dizziness and disorientation. In the pitch darkness, people reportedly collided with walls, counters and one another while trying to follow familiar paths that had suddenly become impossible to navigate. The lack of clear emergency lighting or guidance added to the chaos, witnesses said.

Landslide in Indonesia's West Java Kills Seven

BANDUNG

A deadly landslide in West Java killed seven people, left dozens missing, and triggered large-scale rescue operations Saturday.

Rescue teams in Indonesia are racing against time to locate survivors after a devastating landslide struck the West Bandung region of Indonesia's West Java province, leaving at least seven people dead and dozens more missing. Local officials said search and rescue operations were being intensified amid fears that further landslides could hamper efforts.

According to Abdul Muhari, spokesperson for Indonesia's disaster mitigation agency, the number of people unaccounted for remains high. The number of missing persons is high, we will try to optimise our search and rescue efforts today, he said on Saturday, stressing the urgency of the operation as heavy debris and unstable terrain complicate access to affected areas.

The landslide hit Pasirlangu village in West Bandung at around 2am local time on Saturday. A powerful surge of water mixed with loose soil cascaded down the slopes of Mount Burangrang, smashing into approximately 30 homes while most residents were asleep. The suddenness of the disaster left little time for escape. Local Police Chief AY Yogaswara said the landslide was accompanied by flash flooding, worsening the destruction. Speaking to Jakarta-based Yogaswara said residents recalled hearing a loud rumbling sound moments before torrents of mud and water engulfed parts of the village. Several houses were buried or severely damaged, trapping occupants inside.

Emergency response efforts are being carried out jointly by Indonesia's armed forces, the regional disaster management agency, local police, volunteers, and community members. Heavy machinery, sniffer dogs, and manual digging are being deployed in the search for survivors, though officials warn that ongoing rainfall and unstable slopes pose serious risks to rescuers.

Fearing further tragedy, local authorities have ordered the evacuation of residents living in areas known to be prone to landslides. The affected zone is estimated to span nearly 30 hectares (74 acres), according to Kompas.

Prince Harry condemned remarks on Afghanistan, urging respect for Nato sacrifices after claims allies avoided front lines there

Prince Harry Defends Nato Troops After Trump Claims

LONDON

The Duke of Sussex has called for the sacrifices made by Nato troops in Afghanistan to be discussed truthfully and with respect, following controversial comments by former US president Donald Trump suggesting that allied forces stayed a little back from the front lines during the conflict.

Prince Harry reflected on his own military service as he paid tribute to Nato personnel who lost their lives during the war, including 457 British service members. I served there. I made lifelong friends there. And I lost friends there, the prince said, underlining the personal cost of the conflict for those who took part.

Prince Harry, who was deployed twice to Afghanistan during his time in the British Army, emphasised that the experiences of allied soldiers should not be diminished or misrepresented. His remarks were widely seen as a direct response to Trump's comments made during a televised interview in which the former president appeared to downplay the role of US allies in frontline combat operations.

The comments have triggered strong reactions across Nato countries, where thousands of troops were deployed alongside US forces over two decades of fighting. Allied governments and veterans have stressed that soldiers from multiple nations fought and died in some of the most dangerous regions of the country, often operating jointly with American units.

In the UK, Prime Minister Keir Starmer strongly criticised Trump's remarks, calling them insulting and frankly appalling. Starmer said the comments failed to acknowledge the bravery and sacrifices of British and allied troops who served in Afghanistan under extremely difficult conditions.

Nato's mission in Afghanistan, which began in the aftermath of the September 11 attacks, involved forces from dozens of countries and resulted in significant military and civilian casualties. For many veterans and families of the fallen, recognition of that shared sacrifice remains deeply important.

China Launches Investigation into Senior Military Leaders

BEIJING

China's ruling Communist Party has decided to open an investigation into two of the country's most senior military officials, Zhang Youxia and Liu Zhenli, for suspected serious violations of discipline and law, the defence ministry said on Saturday. The announcement marks a significant development within China's military establishment and underscores the leadership's continued focus on internal discipline and control.

According to the defence ministry, Zhang Youxia is a member of the elite Politburo of the ruling Communist Party of China and serves as vice-chairman of the Central Military Commission (CMC). Liu Zhenli, meanwhile, is the chief of staff of the CMC Joint Staff Department, a key operational arm responsible for coordinating China's military planning and readiness.

Zhang, 75, is widely regarded as one of the most influential figures in the People's Liberation Army. A veteran officer known for his role in modernising China's armed forces, he is often seen as President Xi Jinping's closest military ally. Zhang is also among a small group of senior Chinese officers with direct combat experience, a factor that has long bolstered his standing within the military hierarchy. As one of the two vice-chairmen of the CMC, he occupies a pivotal position in China's supreme military command structure. The investigation into Liu Zhenli is equally significant, given his role overseeing joint operations and staff coordination across China's armed services. As chief of staff of the Joint Staff Department, Liu has been closely involved in shaping military preparedness and operational integration at a time when Beijing has been emphasising combat readiness and reform, While the defence ministry did not provide further details on the alleged violations.

UKRAINE CONDEMNS STRIKES

Ukraine Condemns Deadly Russian Strikes

KYIV

Ukraine has strongly condemned a fresh wave of overnight Russian strikes that killed at least one person and injured 23 others, warning that the attacks risk undermining renewed diplomatic efforts to bring an end to the war. The strikes came as talks involving Ukraine, Russia and the United States are set to resume, raising concerns that continued military escalation could derail fragile negotiations.

Ukraine's Foreign Minister Andrii Sybiha described the assault as brutal and said it was cynically ordered by Russian President Vladimir Putin. In a strongly worded statement, Sybiha said the latest bombardment had hit not only our people, but also the negotiation table, arguing that Russia's actions contradicted any stated willingness to pursue a diplomatic settlement.

According to Ukrainian officials, the strikes targeted multiple areas overnight, damaging civilian infrastructure and prompting emergency services to respond to fires and collapsed buildings. Authorities said the wounded included civilians, reinforcing Kyiv's long-standing accusation that Moscow continues to show disregard for civilian lives. Russia has not immediately commented on the specific allegations surrounding the latest attacks.

The renewed violence comes as delegations from Ukraine, Russia and the United States have been meeting in Abu Dhabi for the first trilateral talks since Moscow launched its full-scale invasion of Ukraine in 2022. The meetings mark a rare moment of direct engagement among the three parties amid a conflict that has caused widespread destruction and displaced millions.

A source familiar with the discussions told BBC that some progress had been made during the talks, although major obstacles remain. Chief among them is the question of territory, a deeply contentious issue that continues to divide Kyiv and Moscow. Ukraine has consistently demanded the full restoration of its internationally recognised borders, while Russia maintains control over large swathes of occupied land.

Analysts say the timing of the overnight strikes could complicate diplomatic efforts, hardening positions on both sides and reducing trust at a critical moment. Ukrainian officials have repeatedly called on Western partners to increase pressure on Moscow, arguing that sustained military aggression shows Russia is not serious about peace.

Syrian, Kurdish Forces Face Truce Deadline

RAQQA

Syrian government forces and Kurdish-led fighters were positioned on opposite sides of tense front lines in northern Syria on Saturday, as a crucial evening deadline approached that would determine whether hostilities would resume or a fragile ceasefire would hold. The standoff has raised fears of renewed violence in a region already battered by years of conflict, displacement and shifting alliances. The confrontation involves forces loyal to the Syrian state and the Kurdish-led Syrian Democratic Forces (SDF), which control large parts of northeastern Syria. Both sides had mobilised troops and equipment near key طوطخ (front lines), creating a highly volatile situation as negotiations continued behind the scenes. Officials in Turkey, as well as some authorities in Syria, indicated that the deadline could be extended, offering a narrow window for diplomacy to prevent renewed clashes.

FII Confidence Hinges on Earnings, Trade Deal

New Delhi

Foreign investor confidence in Indian markets may return if corporate earnings improve in the next quarter and a US-India trade deal is finalised, analysts said. While earnings are expected to recover in the January–March quarter, uncertainty over the trade deal remains a key concern. Foreign portfolio investors continued heavy selling in January, leading to sharp market losses. Weak rupee, poor quarterly results, and policy uncertainty have kept sentiments low, causing a notable fall in indices and market capitalisation.

GOYAL LISTS MAJOR POLICY AND TRADE DEVELOPMENTS

Several recent initiatives highlighted progress in women entrepreneurship support, agricultural exports, and global market access

NEW DELHI

Commerce minister Piyush Goyal outlined major startup, trade, and export milestones from recent weeks nationwide. Over the past two weeks, several events drew attention to India's economic and policy progress. One of the biggest highlights was the completion of ten years of the Startup India initiative. A special event was held in Delhi on January sixteen, attended by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, startup founders, innovators, and young entrepreneurs from across the country. The day was marked as National Startup Day.

During the celebrations, results of the fifth States' Startup Ranking Exercise and the National Startup Awards were announced. The prime minister said Indian youth are focused on solving real problems and building practical solutions. He praised startup founders for creating jobs, supporting innovation, and improving India's global image through their work.

Goyal also shared details of his meeting with David Eby, the Premier of British Columbia in Canada. The discussions aimed at strengthening the India-Canada economic partnership. Both sides explored cooperation in trade, investment, critical minerals, manufacturing, clean energy, technology, education, defence, and innovation.

The Government e-Marketplace completed seven years of its Womaniya initiative, which helps women-led micro and small enterprises participate in government procurement. An agreement was also signed with the Women's Collective Forum to strengthen support for women entrepreneurs. In exports, APEDA opened a regional office in Raipur to boost Chhattisgarh's farm and processed food shipments. India also recorded its first air export of GI-tagged products from Karnataka to the Maldives, supporting farmers and promoting heritage.

Power Ministry Concludes Two-Day Chintan Shivir Meet

Senior officials and experts met to review reforms, energy policy, and long-term plans shaping India's power sector

NEW DELHI

The Ministry of Power concluded a two-day Chintan Shivir held on January 22-23 2026 in Parwanoo, Himachal Pradesh. The meeting brought together senior officials, regulators, state representatives, and industry experts to review challenges and plan the future of India's power sector. Union Power Minister Manohar Lal said the country needs a strong, affordable, and clean electricity system to support the vision of Viksit Bharat 2047.

Discussions focused on the draft Electricity Amendment Bill 2026, which aims to improve financial health of distribution companies, promote competition, and support energy transition. The draft National Electricity Policy 2026 was also reviewed, with targets to raise per capita power use to 2,000 units by 2030 and over 4,000 units by 2047. Participants discussed cutting emission intensity and expanding low-carbon energy sources.

Special sessions focused on speeding up nuclear power development and carrying out long-term reforms in the power distribution sector. Officials also discussed improving transmission systems, promoting distributed energy resources, and expanding storage to achieve a 300 GWh target by 2030. On the second day, discussions centred on strengthening DISCOM finances through policy and regulatory reforms, while rationalising cross-subsidies to boost industry and jobs. Manohar Lal released a CEA report outlining plans for 100 GW of hydro pumped storage by 2035-36, stressing its role in grid stability and clean energy growth.

The Reserve Bank of India announced fresh steps to effectively manage liquidity conditions in the financial system

States' Fiscal Deficit Rises to 3.3 per cent

MUMBAI

States' consolidated gross fiscal deficit increased to 3.3 per cent of GDP in 2024-25, after remaining below 3 per cent for the previous three years, according to the Reserve Bank of India's annual report State Finances: A Study of Budgets. The rise largely reflects 50-year interest-free loans from the Centre under the Special Assistance to States for Capital Investment, which are over and above normal borrowing limits.

For 2025-26, States have budgeted a similar deficit of 3.3 per cent while aiming to control revenue spending. The report noted that consolidated outstanding liabilities of States fell to 28.1 per cent of GDP at end-March 2024, down from 31 per cent in 2021, reflecting fiscal consolidation and favourable debt trends. These liabilities are expected to rise to 29.2 per cent by March 2026.

The RBI highlighted differences among States due to demographic transition. Youthful States benefit from a growing working-age population and stronger revenue potential, while ageing States face fiscal pressure from shrinking tax bases and rising obligations. The report suggests that States leverage their demographic position through human capital investment, healthcare, pension reforms, and revenue mobilisation to ensure sustainable finances in the long term.

This year's report focuses on "Demographic Transition in India – Implications for State Finances," covering actuals for 2023-24 and budget estimates up to 2025-26.

The RBI plans liquidity-boosting measures following a review of financial conditions. These include a Rs 25,000 crore 90-day VRR on January 30, a USD 10 billion/INR swap on February 4, and Rs 1 lakh crore in OMO purchase auctions on February 5 and 12. The central bank will issue detailed instructions for each operation and continue monitoring market conditions to maintain orderly liquidity.

Skoda Slavia Facelift Set To Launch By 2026

NEW DELHI

Skoda Auto India is preparing to launch the facelifted version of its popular sedan, Slavia, by 2026, following the recent update of its Kushaq SUV. The company confirmed the timeline during an interaction with NDTV Automate.

The refreshed Slavia has been spotted testing on multiple occasions, hinting at design and feature updates. The facelift will include a redesigned front grille with vertical slats, revised headlamps and fog lamps, and a reworked bumper with a web-style air dam. At the rear, the taillights and bumper are expected to be updated, giving the car a modernized look.

Inside, the cabin is likely to receive upgrades from the Kushaq, including refreshed upholstery, an improved infotainment system, a redesigned digital instrument cluster, and possibly a panoramic sunroof. Higher variants may even offer rear seat massage functionality.

Mechanically, the facelifted Slavia is expected to retain its current engines: a 1.0-litre three-cylinder turbo-petrol producing 115 hp with manual and automatic options, and a 1.5-litre four-cylinder turbo-petrol delivering 150 hp paired with a seven-speed dual-clutch automatic. Skoda may also introduce an eight-speed torque converter automatic, similar to the Kushaq update.

The Slavia facelift aims to stay competitive in the mid-size sedan segment against rivals like Volkswagen Virtus, Hyundai Verna, and Honda City, all of which are scheduled for updates in the coming years.

India's Tax-to-GDP Ratio Matches Major Global Economies

NEW DELHI

India's combined tax-to-GDP ratio, including central and state revenues, stands at 19.6 per cent, putting it on par with many major global economies, according to a Bank of Baroda report. While central gross tax revenue is lower at 11.7 per cent, the integrated figure surpasses several emerging markets such as Hong Kong, Malaysia, and Indonesia.

The report highlights that the ratio still trails advanced economies like Germany (38%) and the US (25.6%), indicating significant potential for growth given India's favourable demographics. Structural reforms, including the Income Tax Act 2025, corporate tax rationalisation, digitisation, and simplification of compliance, are driving revenue convergence.

Historical data show stronger alignment between tax collections and nominal GDP since FY14, with pronounced convergence from FY23 onwards. The current tax elasticity of 1.1 is above the long-term average. Income tax collections correlate strongly with nominal GDP and per capita income, while corporate tax buoyancy reflects improved corporate earnings.

Granger Causality tests confirm a mutual influence between tax and GDP, though long-run cointegration remains weak, suggesting that revenue growth depends on structural reforms rather than mere economic expansion. The upcoming implementation of the Income Tax Act 2025 on April 1, 2026, is expected to improve efficiency, target the informal sector, and further strengthen India's tax collections, supporting fiscal stability and sustainable growth.

FIEO Says EU GSP Withdrawal Has Limited Export Impact

NEW DELHI

The Federation of Indian Export Organisations (FIEO) said the European Union's extension of the withdrawal of GSP benefits for select Indian products will have limited impact on exports.

It noted that although reports claim 87% of shipments fall in affected categories, many items already attract zero duty under the EU's MFN rates.

Several tariff lines also remain eligible under GSP if rules of origin are met. The move extends an existing policy, with no new products added.

Exporters were urged to assess exposure at HS-code level accurately carefully.

PayU said the initiative reinforces its partnership with DPIIT, offering startups payment solutions, mentorship, community access and fundraising support to scale innovation nationwide.

Union Budget Prepared Amid Strong Growth, Low Inflation Outlook

NEW DELHI

The upcoming Union Budget is being prepared under a better-than-expected growth and inflation scenario, said Dharmakirti Joshi, Chief Economist at Crisil. He noted that economic growth in 2025-26 exceeded earlier expectations, while inflation remained lower than projected, giving the government room to focus on fiscal prudence and economic stability.

Joshi highlighted that higher nominal GDP will support stronger tax collections and improved corporate performance. The government has revised the GDP forecast for FY 2025-26 to 7.3–7.4 per cent, up from 6.3 per cent, while real growth is expected around 6.7 per cent next year. He also mentioned that GDP re-basing on February 27 could further change perceptions of India's economic size and growth trajectory.

On international trade, Joshi stressed the need for agreements with the United States and the European Union to reduce uncertainty for exporters, citing high tariffs as a challenge.

He pointed out that while central government fiscal targets are likely to be met, state deficits remain a concern due to higher-than-budgeted borrowing. Private capital expenditure is improving in sectors like steel, cement, and oil and gas but is not yet broad-based.

Looking ahead, the budget may focus on reforms aligned with the 'Viksit Bharat by 2047' vision, including incentives for emerging sectors such as electronics and ACC batteries. Joshi also noted that taxation changes should be minimal, with rationalized income tax rates and lower GST rates helping maintain fiscal stability.

ISHAN KISHAN'S fiery comeback puts Sanju under pressure as India eye series seal

Ishan Kishan's explosive return sharpens selection debate as India chase series-clinching victory

GUWAHATI

Ishan Kishan's sensational comeback has thrown India's opening combination into sharp focus, placing Sanju Samson firmly under pressure as the hosts look to seal the five-match T20I series against New Zealand in the third game here on Sunday.

With the T20 World Cup barely weeks away, India's core looks settled, but the opening slot alongside Abhishek Sharma remains a live question. Kishan's blistering 76 off just 32 balls in the second T20I has reignited debate, especially with Samson struggling to capitalise on extended opportunities at the top.

Reinstated as opener at the expense of Test and ODI skipper Shubman Gill, Samson was backed after a prolific run late last year, including three centuries in five matches. However, back in his preferred role, the Kerala batter has failed to deliver, managing scores of 10 and 6 against New Zealand, both dismissals exposing his discomfort against high pace.

Former India opener WV Raman pointed out Samson's technical inconsistency, noting that his inability to adjust bat speed against varying pace continues to hurt him. Samson's woes were compounded by an untidy moment behind the stumps, conceding four byes off a wide yorker.

In contrast, Kishan grabbed his chance emphatically. Coming in with India reeling at 6/2, the left-hander launched a fearless counter-attack, bringing up a 21-ball fifty and setting the platform for a record chase. His return, after grinding his way back through domestic cricket, underlined both hunger and form.

Skipper Suryakumar Yadav also silenced critics with a scintillating 82 off 37 balls, ending a prolonged lean patch. India chased down 209 in just 15.2 overs, taking a 2-0 series lead despite a rare failure from Abhishek Sharma.

With Jasprit Bumrah expected back and minor injury concerns around Axar Patel, India will aim to fine-tune combinations. For Samson, however, the remaining games may well be a last audition as Kishan's bat continues to do the talking.

Rachin relishes Indian conditions, fine-tunes T20 game ahead of WC

To prepare for these kind of Indian wickets: Rachin Ravindra

RAIPUR

New Zealand's Rachin Ravindra continues to enjoy batting in Indian conditions and believes his preparations on similar surfaces are beginning to pay off as the T20 World Cup approaches later this year.

The left-hander, who rose to prominence with three centuries during the 2023 ODI World Cup in India, has since gained further familiarity with local conditions through his stint with Chennai Super Kings in the IPL. That experience was on display in the second T20I on Friday night, where he struck a fluent 44 off 26 balls.

Rachin showcased a fine balance of timing and power, driving confidently on the up and launching two sixes each off Harshit Rana and Varun Chakravarthy, before falling to a rare loose delivery from Kuldeep Yadav in the middle overs.

"It is nice to play in India and know the conditions well. Good to have the scoreboard ticking," Rachin said. "I had a lot of training at home, just preparing for these wickets, trying to find my bat swing again with a long diet of T20 cricket ahead."

Heading into the India series, the all-rounder admitted he lacked game time and was pleased to spend meaningful time in the middle. New Zealand posted 208, a total they believed was competitive, but India chased it down comfortably to take a 2-0 lead.

"We thought 208 was par," Rachin said. "The way India batted, it felt like maybe 250 would have been a better target. We lost wickets in clumps, which stalled us a bit."

He acknowledged the impact of dew, a familiar challenge in Indian conditions. "It got progressively wetter, making it harder to grip the ball. That said, it takes nothing away from the way India batted," he added, while crediting Ishan Kishan and Suryakumar Yadav for their match-winning knocks.

Despite the setback, Rachin remains optimistic. "We're disappointed to be 2-0 down, but there's a lot of heart in this group. Hopefully, we can put together a more complete performance in the remaining games," he said, confident New Zealand can still fight back in the series.

Suryakumar showed why he's T20 batter, says Shivam Dube

RAIPUR

Shivam Dube had the perfect vantage point as he watched close friend and captain Suryakumar Yadav remind the cricketing world why he is rated the best T20 batter, producing a match-winning knock in India's commanding victory over New Zealand in the second T20I. Suryakumar's fluent 82 off 37 balls was his first fifty-plus score after a lean run of 23 innings, a timely return to form with the T20 World Cup at home just weeks away. The Indian skipper shared an unbroken 81-run partnership with Dube as India chased down a stiff 209-run target with ease.

Batting ahead of Hardik Pandya to maintain a left-right combination, Dube played a brisk supporting role, scoring 36 off just 18 balls. More than the numbers, it was the authority and freedom in Suryakumar's strokeplay that stood out.

"I was asked about Surya's form in a press conference some time ago. I said that when he shows his form, the world will know what kind of player he is," Dube said. "Today, he showed why he is the number one T20 batter. I really enjoyed watching him."

Before the Suryakumar-Dube stand took control, Ishan Kishan had already tilted the contest decisively in India's favour. Making a strong comeback, Kishan smashed 76 off 32 balls, counter-attacking after India slipped to 6/2 early in the chase.

"Ishan is one of the best left-handers I've seen. In the dressing room, we call him a small pocket blast," Dube said. "He has shown what he was doing in domestic cricket."

Dube also contributed with the ball, dismissing the dangerous Daryl Mitchell with a well-disguised slower delivery. The all-rounder credited the backing of the captain and coach for his growing role as a sixth bowling option.

"As a sixth bowler, whatever overs I get, I try to bowl according to the situation," Dube said, underlining India's increasing depth as they build momentum in the series.

Dube relishes Surya's return to form as India dominate chase against New Zealand

Podcast pals Madison Keys, Jessica Pegula set for Australian Open fourth-round clash

MELBOURNE

Whatever the outcome of their fourth-round meeting at the Australian Open, Madison Keys has already found the perfect headline for it. The defending champion and fellow American Jessica Pegula — close friends and podcast co-hosts — are set to face each other in what Keys jokingly called a "very niche" moment in Grand Slam history. "This is going to be the first match in Grand Slam history between two podcast co-hosts," Keys said with a smile after advancing on Saturday.

Both players booked their spots with composed straight-set victories. Ninth-seeded Keys opened proceedings on Rod Laver Arena with a 6-3, 6-3 win over Karolina Pliskova, while sixth-seeded Pegula followed with a 6-3, 6-2 defeat of Oksana Selekhmeteva at Margaret Court Arena.

"I think we have to do one before the match," Keys said, confirming that an episode would be filmed ahead of Monday's encounter. "We're going to try to think of something to commemorate this moment."

Asked whether fans could expect any trash talk, Keys laughed it off. "I don't know if either of us trash talks very well," she said. "But we'll definitely find a way to make it entertaining."

Pegula admitted she hadn't initially clocked the possibility of facing her friend until the draw began to unfold. "I didn't really realize it until last round that if we both won, we'd play each other," she said. "Maybe it'll help the numbers on the pod."

As for competitive bragging rights, Keys holds a 2-1 edge in their head-to-head meetings, including a three-set win in last year's Adelaide International final. Friendship aside, both know the stakes are high — a place in the quarterfinals — when podcast pals turn rivals on Melbourne's biggest stage.

Sinner overcomes cramps, heat to continue Australian Open title defence

MELBOURNE

Jannik Sinner survived a severe physical and mental test to keep his Australian Open title defence on track, overcoming American qualifier Eliot Spizzirri in a gruelling third-round encounter on Saturday. Battling oppressive heat and visible cramping in both his arms and legs, the two-time defending champion appeared close to an early exit when he was broken early in the third set.

A crucial turning point came when play was suspended under the tournament's extreme heat policy, allowing the roof on Rod Laver Arena to be closed. The pause gave Sinner much-needed time to recover, and the shift in conditions proved decisive. After play resumed, the second-seeded Italian won five of the next six games to take the third set. A 10-minute cooling break further aided his recovery, and Sinner went on to close out a hard-fought 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 victory. "I struggled physically today. I got lucky with the heat rule," Sinner admitted. "Tennis is a very mental game. I tried to stay calm and fight for every point."

Spizzirri, ranked 85 and playing his first Australian Open main draw, impressed with fearless play and strong crowd support, converting six of 16 break points. He also drew applause for sportsmanship by overturning a time violation against Sinner.

ICC Replaces Bangladesh with Scotland in Upcoming T20 WC

The International Cricket Council (ICC) has officially informed the Bangladesh Cricket Board (BCB) that Scotland will replace Bangladesh in the upcoming T20 World Cup, after the BCB declined to travel to India citing security concerns.

Senior ICC officials, including chairman Jay Shah, were reportedly in Dubai when the decision was finalized. An email was sent to BCB chairman Aminul Islam Bulbul, conveying the global body's decision. "An email was sent last evening to Bangladesh Cricket Board chairman intimating him that his board didn't get back to ICC officially after the 24-hour deadline that was given to them to decide if they wanted to come to India, so a decision has been taken," an ICC source told Media on condition of anonymity. The source added that Bangladesh had held a press conference in Dhaka before formally communicating with the ICC, which violated protocol. "They have been categorically told that they are being replaced," the source said.

Bangladesh's Sports Ministry advisor Asif Nazrul had reportedly advised against travelling to India, citing security concerns, even after repeated assurances from the ICC regarding safety. Cricket Scotland has stated that it has not yet received any official confirmation, though it appears only a matter of time before formal communication is made.

Scotland is now set to play four group-stage games in the tournament. Their schedule includes matches against West Indies on February 7, Italy on February 9, and England on February 14 in Kolkata, followed by a clash with Nepal in Mumbai on February 17.

The T20 World Cup is scheduled to begin on February 7, with the tournament now seeing Scotland step in for Bangladesh in what promises to be a tightly contested group stage.

Replacements in top form, SA well covered for T20 World Cup: Nortje

JOHANNESBURG

South Africa pace spearhead Anrich Nortje has played down concerns over injuries in the Proteas camp ahead of the T20 World Cup, expressing confidence in the squad's depth and the form of the replacement players drafted in for the global showpiece.

South Africa were recently forced to make two changes to their 15-man World Cup squad, bringing in Ryan Rickelton and Tristan Stubbs after Tony de Zorzi and Donovan Ferreira were ruled out due to injuries. While acknowledging the disappointment of losing key players, Nortje insisted the team remains well covered.

"Obviously, it's sad and unfortunate when guys miss out through injury. I've been on that side myself in a few ICC events," Nortje said. "But the guys coming in have really put their hand up and done well."

The fast bowler pointed out that most replacements have prior international or World Cup experience and are currently performing strongly, particularly in the SA20 League. "These are not players who haven't played at this level. They're proper players and they're in good form," he added.

South Africa are also monitoring the fitness of senior players David Miller, Dewald Brevis and Lungi Ngidi, but Nortje believes the hectic recent schedule has ensured ample match practice for most of the squad.

"There's been a lot of cricket and a lot of travel, but that also means the boys have played plenty of matches. I don't think anyone has gone in undercooked," said the 32-year-old, who has featured in 44 T20Is for the Proteas.

Addressing concerns over slow pitches, including at the Wanderers, Nortje said variety in conditions is nothing new for South African teams. "Every venue here offers something different. The important thing is adapting quickly, and I think we've done that well," he said.

While admitting that an international series together before the World Cup would have been ideal, Nortje felt the squad is close to peak readiness. "Everyone looks confident and in good space. It's probably as close to ideal as it can be."

Highlighting the unpredictability of T20 cricket, Nortje added that South Africa would rely on collective effort rather than individuals as they head into the World Cup.

FIFA to award $2.3 million to winners of inaugural Women's Champions Cup

FIFA unveils prize money boost as women's club football takes landmark step

ZURICH

FIFA will award $2.3 million in prize money to the winners of the inaugural Women's Champions Cup, marking a significant financial milestone for the women's club game ahead of the tournament's final stages in England next week.

The world governing body confirmed that a total prize fund of $3.9 million will be shared among the six continental champions competing in the event. The Women's Champions Cup is being staged as a precursor to a full-scale Women's Club World Cup, which FIFA plans to launch in 2028.

The semi-finals will be held on Wednesday, January 28, at the home of Premier League club Brentford. European champions Arsenal will face Morocco's ASFAR, while Gotham FC of the United States take on Brazil's Corinthians.

The final and third-place playoff are scheduled for February 1 at Arsenal's Emirates Stadium.

Under FIFA's prize distribution model, the tournament winners will receive $2.3 million, while the runners-up will take home $1 million. The two losing semi-finalists will each earn $200,000. Continental champions already eliminated earlier — Auckland United of Oceania and Wuhan Chegu Jiangda of Asia — will each receive $100,000.

"The prize money is a clear statement of the belief in women's club football and the players, teams and competitions driving its continued rise," FIFA secretary general Mattias Grafström said in a statement.

The figures underline FIFA's intent to narrow the financial gap between the men's and women's games, though a stark disparity remains. FIFA distributed $1 billion among the 32 teams at the men's Club World Cup in 2025, a tournament staged in the United States and backed heavily by Saudi Arabian investment to attract top European clubs.

By comparison, Arsenal earned just over €1.5 million ($1.8 million) for winning the UEFA Women's Champions League last season.

FIFA hopes the Women's Champions Cup will raise the profile of elite women's clubs globally, build commercial momentum and serve as a testing ground ahead of the expanded Women's Club World Cup, which is expected to significantly increase participation, visibility and prize money when it debuts later this decade.

Consider WC boycott over Trump's actions, says German official

German FA vice-president urges debate on values as 2026 World Cup approaches

BERLIN

A senior German football official has called for serious discussions on a potential boycott of the 2026 FIFA World Cup, citing concerns over the political actions of U.S. President Donald Trump and their broader implications for global stability and values.

Oke Göttlich, president of Bundesliga club St. Pauli and one of the German Football Federation's (DFB) 10 vice-presidents, said the issue could no longer be ignored. Göttlich argued that "the time has come" to consider whether participation in the World Cup, co-hosted by the United States, Canada and Mexico, aligns with football's stated principles.

Trump's controversial foreign policy moves — including a takeover bid for Greenland and threats of tariffs against several European nations — have unsettled relations between the United States and its allies, raising fears of long-term geopolitical fallout. Göttlich compared the current situation to the Olympic boycotts of the 1980s.

"What were the justifications for those boycotts?" he asked. "By my reckoning, the potential threat is greater now than it was then. We need to have this discussion."

The United States will host matches from June 11 to July 19, but concerns are already mounting among fans over high ticket prices and travel bans that could prevent supporters from certain nations from attending.

Göttlich's stance is likely to face resistance from DFB president Bernd Neuendorf and FIFA president Gianni Infantino, both of whom have so far resisted calls to politicise the tournament. Göttlich questioned what he sees as inconsistency in football's moral positioning.

"Qatar was too political for everyone and now we're suddenly apolitical?" he said. "That really bothers me."

Known for its strong political identity, St. Pauli has long blended sport with activism. Göttlich dismissed suggestions that a boycott would unfairly punish players, arguing that football cannot turn a blind eye to wider human consequences.

"The life of a professional footballer is not worth more than the lives of countless people being threatened or harmed," he said. "As organisations and as a society, we must remember how to set boundaries and defend values." His remarks ensure the debate over politics and sport will intensify as the 2026 World Cup draws closer.

Michael Carrick urges Manchester United to prove credentials as Arsenal await test

Carrick challenges Man Utd as Arsenal await, Arteta warns of lethal counters

LONDON

Michael Carrick has challenged Manchester United to prove their credentials against Premier League leaders Arsenal as the interim head coach prepares for his second game in charge, while Mikel Arteta has warned his side to be wary of United's "lethal" counter-attacking threat.

Carrick enjoyed a dream start to his spell at Old Trafford with a commanding 2-0 derby win, a performance that lifted mood and belief around the club. Now comes a far sterner examination at the Emirates Stadium, where Arsenal remain unbeaten this season and are firmly on course to end their long wait for a league title.

United have not won a Premier League game away to Arsenal since 2017, but Carrick believes the challenge is one his players should embrace. He praised Arteta's side as a "rounded team" with threats across the pitch, highlighting their dangerous wide players, strong set-pieces and collective balance between attack and defence.

"We know it's a challenge, but it's one we can face head-on," Carrick said, insisting his squad must keep proving itself week by week after an encouraging start under his guidance.

Arteta, meanwhile, expects United to arrive with renewed intensity and ideas under Carrick. The Arsenal manager pointed to the Manchester derby as evidence of United's ability to punish opponents ruthlessly on the break, stressing the need for control and concentration.

Williams to miss opening F1 preseason test after car delays

GROVE

Williams will miss next week's opening Formula 1 preseason test in Barcelona after reporting delays in getting its new car ready for the 2026 season, the team confirmed.

The Barcelona shakedown, scheduled to run over five days, will be the first opportunity for teams to put 2026-specification cars through extended running, beyond limited filming and reliability sessions. Williams, however, said it has opted to withdraw as it continues work on its FW48 challenger in pursuit of improved performance.

"Atlassian Williams F1 Team has taken the decision not to participate in next week's shakedown test in Barcelona following delays in the FW48 program as we continue to push for maximum car performance," the team said in a statement.

Instead, Williams plans to conduct a virtual testing programme next week and will now target the first of two official preseason tests in Bahrain next month. The Barcelona test is being held privately, with teams allowed to run on any three of the five days, and is primarily focused on reliability rather than outright pace.

Despite the setback, Williams struck an optimistic tone. "We are looking forward to getting on track in the coming weeks and want to thank all our fans for your continued support – there is a lot to look forward to together in 2026," the statement added.

The delay is a blow for a team that showed clear signs of progress during the 2025 season, highlighted by two podium finishes for Carlos Sainz Jr. Williams had been among the most transparent teams about shifting resources early toward the sweeping 2026 regulation changes, viewing them as an opportunity to close the gap to the front of the grid.

Inter recover from early shock to rout Pisa, tightening grip atop Serie A

Inter Milan Bounce Back From 2-0 Down, Demolish Pisa To Extend Serie A Lead

MILAN

Inter Milan produced a blistering comeback to thrash struggling Pisa 6-2, recovering from a two-goal deficit to strengthen their position at the top of Serie A and open a six-point lead over rivals AC Milan. What briefly threatened to become one of the shock results of the season instead turned into a ruthless display of attacking depth and resilience at the San Siro. Pisa, winless in their previous 10 league matches, stunned the home crowd by racing into a 2-0 lead midway through the first half.

The visitors struck after 11 minutes when veteran striker Stefano Moreo capitalised on a poor pass from Inter goalkeeper Yann Sommer. Spotting Sommer off his line, Moreo lifted an audacious shot from around 35 metres into the empty net. Pisa doubled their advantage in the 23rd minute as Stefano headed home from a corner, leaving Inter suddenly rattled.

However, the league leaders responded emphatically. Piotr Zielinski pulled one back from the penalty spot seven minutes before halftime after Matteo Tramoni was penalised for handball. Momentum swung decisively moments later when captain Lautaro Martínez rose to nod in the equaliser.

Inter completed a stunning turnaround just before the break as Francesco Pio Esposito headed home Alessandro Bastoni's cross, giving the hosts a 3-2 lead at halftime after three goals in seven minutes.

The second half became a procession. Federico Dimarco made it 4-2 with eight minutes remaining, before Ange-Yoan Bonny added a fifth following an impressive solo run. Henrikh Mkhitaryan capped the scoring deep into stoppage time with Inter's sixth.

The victory marked Inter's ninth win in 10 league games and moved them six points clear of AC Milan and nine ahead of defending champions Napoli. The timing was ideal, with the top four facing each other this weekend, potentially further reshaping the title race.

Bradley Barcola's Late Winner Sinks Auxerre, Sends PSG Top of Ligue 1

AUXERRE

Bradley Barcola's deft late finish earned Paris Saint-Germain a hard-fought 1-0 victory away to Auxerre, sending the defending champions back to the top of Ligue 1, at least temporarily.

The 23-year-old winger, PSG's most persistent attacking threat throughout the match, finally broke Auxerre's resistance 10 minutes from time with a delicate chipped effort that settled a contest dominated by the visitors. Until then, it had appeared Auxerre might hold PSG to a second successive goalless home draw, inspired largely by an outstanding performance from goalkeeper Donovan Leon.

The win lifted PSG above Lens in the standings, though Lens could reclaim first place with a victory away to third-placed Marseille on Saturday. Auxerre, meanwhile, remain entrenched in the relegation zone, six points adrift of safety.

PSG began at a blistering pace and could have been out of sight inside the opening 10 minutes. Barcola was twice denied by Leon, while Sinaly Diomande produced a crucial sliding block to stop Khvicha Kvaratskhelia's goalbound effort. Leon continued to frustrate the visitors, parrying a close-range header from Goncalo Ramos and later producing a superb double save in a frantic goalmouth scramble to deny both Kvaratskhelia and teenage prospect Ibrahim Mbaye.

After the break, the pattern remained unchanged. Barcola flashed a shot wide, Kvaratskhelia saw a deflected effort drift just past the post, and Barcola's attempted chip dropped agonisingly onto the roof of the net. Auxerre offered little going forward, with speculative efforts from Danny Namaso and Lassine Sinayoko failing to test PSG goalkeeper Lucas Chevalier.

Ferrari 'More United Than Ever' as Hamilton Drives New F1 Car after Troubled 2025

FIORANO MODENESE

Ferrari team principal Fred Vasseur insisted the Scuderia is "more united than ever" after Lewis Hamilton took the wheel of the team's new Formula 1 car, the SF-26, during its first shakedown run.

Hamilton drove the car at Ferrari's private Fiorano test track on a cool, damp winter's morning, marking the Italian team's first on-track outing ahead of official preseason testing in Spain next week. The brief run was designed to check systems and reliability before the start of full testing under Formula 1's radically revised 2026 regulations.

The sweeping rule changes — among the most significant in the sport's history — have raised hopes Ferrari can move on from a frustrating 2025 campaign. Last season proved difficult for both Hamilton and Charles Leclerc, with Ferrari failing to win a single Grand Prix. For Hamilton, it was an especially challenging debut year with the team, as the seven-time world champion did not reach the podium in a Grand Prix for the first time in his career, though he did secure a sprint race victory.

"This car is the result of a tremendous team effort and represents the start of a completely new journey," Vasseur said. "It is built around a different set of rules that inevitably brings a number of unknowns. The team is aligned and more united than ever as we look ahead to the season."

Ferrari's struggles last year had sparked speculation over Vasseur's future, but the Frenchman received a contract extension in July, backed strongly by senior management. Hamilton described the development of the SF-26 as a "particularly fascinating challenge," with the new regulations mandating smaller and lighter cars, and a greater emphasis on electrical power.

"The 2026 season represents a huge challenge for everyone, probably the biggest regulation change I have experienced in my career," Hamilton said. "When a new era begins, everything revolves around development, growth as a team, and moving forward in the same direction." The new Formula 1 season begins with the Australian Grand Prix on March 8.

Tushar Mane and Sakshi Better Record Scores in Selection Trials

NEW DELHI

Maharashtra's Sakshi Sunil Padekar and Railways' Shahu Tushar Mane delivered standout performances at the National Selection Trials 1 & 2, bettering national record scores in the women's and men's 10m air rifle events at the Karni Singh Shooting Range.

Sakshi produced a sensational display in the women's event, shooting 254.3 in the Trial 2 final after topping qualification with 634.4. Her final score surpassed the existing national record set by Elavenil Valarivan at last year's Asian Shooting Championship. Mane, meanwhile, impressed in the men's competition by firing 637.1 in the qualification round. However, according to the National Rifle Association of India (NRAI), these performances will not be recognised as official national records as they were achieved during trials.

After a below-par outing on Thursday, Olympian Arjun Babuta bounced back strongly to win the men's 10m air rifle Trial 2 final. Babuta, who had qualified second with 632.4, raised his level in the final to finish with 253.4, edging out Maharashtra's Parth Rakesh Mane by a slender margin of 0.1 points. Parth finished on 253.3, while Kiran Ankush Jadav claimed third place.

Sakshi was in complete command of the women's 10m air rifle event, maintaining control from qualification through to the final to clinch top honours.

Ajith Kumar's cult classic Mankatha has returned to cinemas, 13 years after its original release, and fans are celebrating with full enthusiasm. The re-release has drawn crowds across Tamil Nadu and Kerala, with audiences cheering, whistling, clapping, and even showering confetti during screenings.

One screening at Karpagam Theatre in Coimbatore, however, saw a fan burst crackers inside the hall during Ajith's introduction scene. Police reportedly entered the theatre to control the crowd, ensuring safety while fans continued their celebrations.

The film's enduring appeal lies in Ajith Kumar's memorable portrayal of anti-hero Vinayak Mahadev. Playing a corrupt Mumbai ACP with shades of grey, Ajith's salt and pepper look became a trend among fans. His intense face-offs with Action King Arjun added thrill to the story and kept audiences on the edge of their seats.

Mankatha's plot revolves around Vinayak, who is suspended for helping a smuggler infiltrate a gang planning to steal Rs 500 crore in IPL betting money from gangster Chettiyar. The music video shows two sides of his character – his dedication to duty and his love for his family, including his wife, played by Chitrangada, and their two sons. Fans were particularly moved by these personal moments, highlighting the emotional depth of the story.

The song's lyrics emphasize devotion to the motherland, with lines such as, Maatrubhumi aaj mai sankalp lu tere liye, mai jiyoon tere liye aur mai marun tere liye (Motherland, today I take a pledge for you, I will live for you and I will die for you). Composed by Himesh Reshammiya, the song features the voices of Arijit Singh and Shreya Ghoshal, adding to its stirring effect.

Upon its release, fans praised the combination of Salman Khan and Arijit Singh. Many shared their excitement online, with comments like Tiger is ready and even viewers from other countries saying the song gave them goosebumps. Heart and salute emojis flooded the comment section as fans expressed respect for the soldiers and admiration for the film.

Battle of Galwan is based on the real 2020 clash between Indian and Chinese forces in the Galwan Valley, honoring the bravery of 200 Indian soldiers defending their territory. The song Maatrubhumi sets the tone for a film that blends heroism, patriotism, and emotional storytelling.

Top Tamil Directors Move To Tollywood For Bigger Projects

Telugu cinema is attracting top Tamil directors as they seek bigger budgets, wider reach, and better pay. Directors like Atlee and Lokesh Kanagaraj have upcoming films with Allu Arjun, while Nelson Dilipkumar is reportedly in talks to work with Jr NTR. Industry insiders explain why this creative migration is gaining momentum.

Producer G Dhananjheyan says the trend is not unusual. Filmmakers want to be treated as pan-Indian directors, not limited to Tamil cinema. Opportunities exist across India, in Telugu, Kannada, and Hindi films. Many directors, including Prabhudeva, AR Murugadoss, Atlee, and RS Prasanna, have succeeded in multiple industries, he explains.

Economics also play a key role. Tamil producers often cannot afford the high salaries some directors command, while Telugu production houses can fund films with budgets of ₹500-750 crore. Except for a few production houses, no Tamil producer can pay a ₹50 crore salary to a director. Telugu cinema offers bigger projects and higher pay, a source revealed. Another factor is the limited pool of Tamil actors who can anchor mega-budget films. If Vijay had continued acting, a ₹400-500 crore film would be possible. In Tamil, only Rajinikanth can carry such projects, while Telugu stars like Allu Arjun and Prabhas have pan-Indian appeal, adds Dhananjheyan. Producer Sameer Bharat Ram stresses that filmmakers should have professional freedom.

Directors can work in any industry with any actors. Their choice should not be questioned. With larger budgets, wider reach, and pan-Indian opportunities, Tamil directors are increasingly turning to Tollywood, signaling a shift in the Indian film industry landscape.

Prabhas film producer files impersonation complaint

Following the release of The Raja Saab, producer SKN has filed a police complaint against several social media accounts impersonating him and posting derogatory and misleading content about the film and its cast. The complaint was lodged at the Cyber Crime Police Station, and an investigation is currently underway. Directed by Maruthi, the Prabhas-starrer released on January 9 and earned around Rs 200 crore worldwide, despite receiving mixed reviews. According to SKN, the fake posts created confusion and unfairly targeted the film and its actors. He warned that strict legal action will be taken against those responsible for spreading negativity.

Roshan Meka's Champion To Stream On Netflix Soon

Roshan Meka's latest film Champion is set to arrive on Netflix from January 29, just five weeks after its theatrical release. The early digital debut follows the movie's lukewarm performance at the box office and aims to reach a wider audience quickly.

Champion, a period sports drama directed by Pradeep Advaitam, tells the story of Michael B Williams, a talented footballer from Secunderabad who dreams of playing for Manchester in England. His journey is full of challenges, including being entangled in arms smuggling and facing Razakar atrocities in Bhairanpally village. Along the way, he falls in love with Chandrakala, played by Anaswara Rajan. Avantika Vandanapu and Edward Sonnenblick also appear in key roles.

The movie released in theatres on December 25 and received mixed reviews. While some praised its story and performances, weak word-of-mouth and limited audience turnout affected its box office collection. Industry insiders believe that the OTT release on Netflix is a strategic move to reduce losses and expand viewership.

Netflix will stream Champion in multiple languages, including Telugu, Tamil, Kannada, and Malayalam, making it accessible to a pan-Indian audience.
